TESTIMONIAL

Redmond Construction/Robeco Ltd.

To whom it may concern,

Redmond brothers have won several contracts through tender processes conducted by our office since I began to practice in 1998. These projects ranged from small simple extensions to large complex developments. Two such projects of note were a medium size bungalow in Gorey Town and large bio mass district heating system installed in a local community which I project managed and administered the tender process and contracts.

At all times through the tender process and contract Tom and Paddy Redmond acted with the utmost of professionalism. They are an extremely approachable and flexible company which ensures they are an asset to any project. Their hands on approach and constant availability brings a personal touch to any project. The district heating system was one of the first of its kind in the country and the Redmond's displayed their ability to adapt to the unknown and deal with any problems thrown in their direction.

I would have no hesitation in recommending Redmond brothers or Robeco Ltd. For any size project and I am sure they will remain on our tender list for years to come.

Yours sincerely,

Michael Molloy.
Lead Practice Architect.
